

Call for Presentations and Posters

Center for Faculty Development's Annual Faculty Development Week

Theme: Innovating Faculty Development

Event Dates: February 3-7, 2025

Proposal Submission Deadline: Monday, January 13, 2025

The Center for Faculty Development invites faculty and staff to submit presentation and poster proposals for our Annual Faculty Development Week, taking place both in person and online from February 3-7, 2025. This year's theme is "Innovating Faculty Development"; we welcome both individual and group presentations that showcase innovative practices aimed at elevating faculty success and belonging at UHCL.

We encourage presentations and poster submissions on practices that include but are not limited to:

- Create spaces of belonging in the academy
- Support faculty mental health and well-being
- Showcase innovative teaching and/or research practices
- Integrate generative AI
- Other topics geared toward enhancing faculty success

Submission Guidelines:

- Deadline for Proposal Submissions: Monday, January 13, 2025
- Submit all proposals here.
- Submission Requirements:
 - Name and Contact Information (if submitting a group proposal, please include the names and contact information of all presenters in the proposal submission attachment)
 - Presentation preferences
 - 100-250 word abstract that clearly describes the objectives, methods, and anticipated outcomes of the presentation or poster.

Submissions will be reviewed by a committee, and selected presenters will be notified by January 24, 2025. Final posters will be due on Monday, January 27, 2025.

For any questions or further information, please contact facultydevelopment@uhcl.edu. We look forward to your contributions!
